The Awards for Photographic Merit (APM) represent a considerable achievement for any photographer and you should all wear you badge with pride, whatever the colour. This e-news Special Issue lists the facts and figures but it is the excitement of the event, the energy and enthusiasm of the entrants and the elation of success, tinged sometimes with the regret of failure, which really characterises the Awards for Photographic Merit. No-one forgets their first Adjudication, or their second, or their third.

The numbers do not necessarily indicate the current holders in any Club. Awards are credited to the Club named by the applicant in their application and, also, it is a count of Awards, not photographers. For example, if a Club member achieved C, D and M – a feat registered to a relatively small number of people – then all three Awards are counted. There are people who achieved (say) DPAGB with one Club and (say) MPAGB with another. Inaccuracies may also occur when Clubs change their name or the entrant writes it in a different form.

The charts also include APM in Slides and it is unlikely that there will be another Adjudication. They also include APM in Audio Visual which, in past years, was judged on different criteria than is now applied and some of which were joint submissions with two recipients.
